CHANGES IN TEA BOARD.

Reorganization of Sample Producers to Follow Complaints.

The tea board of the Treasury Department, which is composed of seven experts on tea, will shortly be reorganized. An entire new board will be appointed, and none of the present members will be retained. The existing board is composed of Charles A. Atwood, of Chicago; Edward B. Brandenstein, of San Francisco; Frederick Hellyer, of Chicago; George Hewlett, of New York; A. P. Irwin, of Philadelphia; Oliver C. Macy, of New York; and Herbert G. Woodworth, of Boston. This board is for the purpose of preparing samples to be used as a standard for importations at the different ports of entry of the country. The New York tea importers have filed a protest against the administration of the customs laws on tea, and against some of the members of the tea board.

URGES BUILDING AT FAIR.

Mayor Gurner and Panama Exposition Official in Conference.

New York, Feb. 6.—Charles C. Moore, president of the Panama Pacific International Exposition, to be held in San Francisco, and Theodore Hardee, secretary to the commission, called on Mayor Gurner to-day to urge an appropriation for the construction of a municipal building on the exposition grounds. Mr. Moore had a long talk with the mayor regarding the city's exhibit.

He pointed out that the city had a building to house its exhibit at the St. Louis exposition in 1904. Mayor Gurner is understood to favor the plan, and will consider the question at an early meeting of the board of estimate and apportionment.

English medical men have lately been recommending the smoky parts of Sheffield for sufferers from asthma.

Overfatness Condemned.

Fat, or even fattish, women readers who want to be in the mode this year must understand that the demand is for lines, not curves, and govern themselves accordingly. That means OFF with the fat. It has become a duty. Many are trying exercise or dieting but it is certain they will find these methods too slow, and undesirable. The cheapest and safest way to get in form for the Directorate mode is by means of Marmola Prescription Tablets. Any druggist for the Marmola Co., 301 Farmer Bldg., Detroit, Mich.) will give you a large sized case of these elegant little fat reducers, containing a good, generous supply, for seventy-five cents, and even this quantity should be enough to make a decided impression on your excess fat. Many have lost as much as a pound a day.

These Marmola Prescription Tablets may be used with impunity and like perfect confidence, for, being made strictly in accordance with the famous Marmola Prescription, they are, of course, quite harmless. They are rather benevolent than otherwise, in fact, never disturbing the stomach or causing a wrinkle of the face.

OBJECTS TO TRESPASSING.

Lincoln Park Citizens Criticize the East Washington Body.

Resolutions criticizing the East Washington Citizens' Association for infringing upon their territory, and advocating propositions which do not meet with the approval of the Lincoln Park Citizens' Association, were passed by the last named organization at its monthly meeting last night at Ingram Memorial Church, Tenth and Massachusetts avenue northeast. C. E. Riddon, secretary of the association, introduced a resolution, which was passed, requesting the proper authorities to have removed "the pentagonal looking barrier which gives a jail-like appearance to the Botanic Garden." The project to utilize the water power of Great Falls was advocated in a resolution presented by A. Hunt. A bill appropriating $10,000 to be used in the preliminary steps of the work has been passed by the House.

Support of the various civic organizations to agitate the subject of the removal of cemeteries from within the city, was urged in a resolution presented by C. A. Vanderlip.

HOME AND GARDEN.

Prof. W. R. Beattie's Lecture on Domestic Agriculture.

Prof. William R. Beattie, assistant horticulturist of the Department of Agriculture, gave the second in the series of illustrated lectures on domestic agriculture last night in the Y. M. C. A. assembly hall. His topic was "The home vegetable garden." As the basis of success in gardening, the enriching of the soil by the application of fertilizers and manure is absolutely essential, said Prof. Beattie. The lecturer urged his hearers to stick to the common, well-known varieties of vegetables, rather than to run after varieties of uncertain value. "Avoid frequent sprinkling of plants with garden hose, but irrigate thoroughly when needed," is the keynote to success in a garden. "The people who go back to the land should understand it," declared Prof. Beattie. "While I fully endorse the 'back to the land' movement, that movement cannot be depended upon to solve the problems of feeding the masses. There are many families, however, that might have a garden from which it would be possible to obtain a large portion of their living."

Next week Prof. Beattie will give "Commercial fruit growing in Eastern United States."

Prof. Carroll's Lecture.

Prof. Mitchell Carroll was the speaker at the meeting of the Anthropological Society yesterday afternoon at the National Museum. Prof. Carroll's lecture, which was accompanied by lantern illustrations, was upon the subject of the excavations at Raschra.

SCHOOLS OBSERVE BIRTH OF DICKENS

Life of English Novelist Will Be Reviewed To-day—His Visit Here Recalled.

The centennial of the birth of Charles Dickens will be celebrated in all of the public schools of the District to-day. The life of the English novelist will be reviewed, and selections will be read from his most popular works.

In some of the grades portions of Dickens' books will be dramatized. The children are already familiar with the works of Dickens, as the reading and study of some of his books are required in the curriculum.

Mrs. S. F. Fitzgerald, a life-long resident of Washington, who was the granddaughter of Ezra Fuller, proprietor of Fuller's City Hotel, at which Charles Dickens stopped during his first visit to Washington in 1842, yesterday told her reminiscences of the famous novelist.

"I was six years old at the time," said Mrs. Fitzgerald. "I have many memories of the visit of Mr. Dickens. In the first place, he stopped at the hotel conducted by my grandfather, and at which I lived, and I saw him daily during his stay here."

"The hotel at which Mr. Dickens stopped was conducted by my grandfather, Ezra Fuller, and was called 'Fuller's City Hotel.' It was at the corner of Fourth street and Pennsylvania avenue, where the New Willard now stands. It was composed of seven red brick houses joined together, two stories in height, with an attic to each house."

"The hotel was occupied by a family on the first floor of house number 7. He had a striking appearance, but was not generally liked because of his English ways, his manner having a trace of the overbearing. Whenever the bell in his apartment would ring, the word would go around: 'There's Mr. Dickens ringing; you'd better hurry.'"

The houses backed into a broad yard, paved with bricks and with a tank in the center of a triangle. In the tank were kept terrapin and turtles for use on the table. Many a one of these terrapin and turtles was eaten by Mr. Dickens during his stay.

"When he returned to England and wrote stories of America from his notes gathered while here, he stated that he did not like the hotel at which he had stopped while in Washington because of the fact that it was very poorly conducted, pigs being allowed to run around in the back yard. This was untrue. The yard was kept scrupulously clean, and no pigs were allowed in it. The brick paving was washed regularly every morning."

"It may have been that Mr. Dickens saw pigs and cows on the streets, and even in Pennsylvania avenue, as many of the residents kept their own cows and pigs, and the animals were allowed to graze on the thoroughfare. My grandmother was very indignant when she saw Mr. Dickens' stories concerning the hotel and denied them on every occasion."

The site and buildings of the hotel were owned by Capt. Taylor, a wealthy resident of Washington, who lived in the Octagon House. He sold the property to the three Willard brothers, who erected a hotel of their own on the site."

Mrs. Josephine Arnold Hick, of the Federation of Women's Clubs, spoke of the personal work of Mrs. Lockwood, saying her many charitable deeds are performed in silence and that the poor and afflicted have always found in her a true friend and counselor.

TO REBUILD OLD SHAFT. Requesting an appropriation to restore "the first monument ever erected to George Washington," Representative Lewis, of Maryland, introduced a bill in the House yesterday.

The resolution states that the patriotic citizens of Boonesboro, Md., on July 4, 1877, erected with their own hands a stone monument in honor of George Washington. This monument, which is in the form of a tower, is now crumbling and Mr. Lewis asks the sum of $2,500 to restore it to its original state.
